MINISTER URGES CLERGY TO STOP MUDDLING LAWS

Hyattsville Rector Calls Proposed Blue Laws Out of Date.

HYATTSVILLE, Md., Jan. 10 .- Rev. Charles E. McAllister, rector of St. Matthews Parish, has started a two-isted fight against Sunday blue laws n Prince Georges County.

He thinks ministers who advocate a sunless Sunday could be about better business. Rev. Mr. McAllister calls attention respectfully to the calls attention respectfully to the fact that Washington suburbs in 1921 differ slightly from the Flymouth Bay Colony in 1620.

"We must all wake up to the fact that righteousness cannot be inspired by legislation," he says. Some of the clergy are so busy raming retrogressive blue laws and attempting to reform mankind processionally and playing at politics that the "Father's business" is neglected. If g more consistent effort were made to preach the spirit of Christ and of the gospel there would be more practical Christianity in the world and less pretense at improving humanity by man-made laws ing humanity by man-made laws subject to amendment. "Puritanism with all its virtues is not a practical expression of re-ligion in our day and generation. Common sense in the interpretation of Christian duty is more necessary than a series of congressional 'thou
